Enjoy 50% off the food at new Alpine-inspired Haugen Café in Stratford

A new Alpine-inspired restaurant, Haugen, will open officially on 15 September, in the heart of the Olympic Park in Stratford, East London.

Named in tribute to an unsung hero of the first Winter Olympics in 1924 and taking inspiration from Alpine dining, D&D London's Haugen will bring classic Alpine dishes to their all-day dining café, restaurant, deli, outdoor terraces and rooftop bar.

Haugen will bring a sense of Alpine generosity to the ground floor café with their indulgent sharing plates of Mountain Fondue served with sourdough, new potatoes & pickles and Tartiflette with reblochon, bacon and potato.

To finish, there's the signature dessert of Chocolate Fondue, with marshmallow, fresh strawberries and honeycomb for dipping, alongside Apple Strudel, Sacher Torte and a decadent 'Schwarzwälder' cherry vinegar sorbet with Kirsch cream & chocolate mousse, topped with chocolate crunch, cherry gel and an almond cinnamon tuile.

Haugen is at 9 Endeavour Square, Stratford, London, E20 1JN. Follow them on Instagram @haugenlondon
